

McSPARRAN VISITS TOWN

TALKS TO SEVERAL THOUSAND ADAMS COUNTY PEOPLE.

The Democratic Candidate Captivates His Hearers With His Straight Talk.

Farmers' Day, ideal as to weather, brought a record-breaking crowd to Gettysburg. There were several thousand automobiles in town and crowd on the streets, in cars and on playground numbered between 20,000 and 25,000 people.

The day was a success from start to finish in exhibits of livestock, farm and garden products, fruits and domestic exhibits, and the Baby Show, under the auspices of the Red Cross, was great. There were large exhibits of automobiles, and farm machinery supplies and electrical apparatus for the farmer. The entertainment features attracted huge crowds.

McSparran Here.

John A. McSparran, Democratic candidate for Governor, Robert E. Pattison, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, A. M. Thompson, Democratic candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, and Colonel Frederick B. Kerr, Democratic candidate for United States Senator were the speakers.

Samuel F. Glatfelter, Democratic candidate for Congress, was the Master of Ceremonies, and at 3 o'clock a crowd of thousands gathered around the speaker's platform provided for the occasion. All the speakers had clear, ringing voices and were heard distinctly by the great throng who listened attentively, frequently applauding.

Master of Ceremonies first introduced Robert E. Pattison, who jumped into the issues of the campaign and declared Pinchot was not a Pennsylvanian. That he was born in Connecticut, had lived the greater part of his life in New York and Washington. He came to Pennsylvania in 1911 and took part in the Progressive movement and was hanging on for what he could get out of it. The speaker declared he was neither a Progressive nor Republican and proved his assertions. Several weeks ago he refused the Progressive nomination for Governor, and a few years ago when the Progressives believed they had killed the Republican party in the State, he read a declaration of Pinchot, in which he predicted that in a few years there would be only two great parties in Pennsylvania, the Progressive and Democratic, that Pinchot declared there would be no Republican party because it would be dead. The insincerity of Pinchot in the matter of reform was punctured through and through, how as the Forester of the State he had spent hundreds of thousands more dollars than had ever been done before, how he had created jobs. He referred to the criticism about the inefficiency of the State Printer's Office and showed how Pinchot had made requisitions on the State Printer for his department, so that the appropriation for printing could not hold out for other departments criticized. The speaker directed attention to the centralized government of the State, which had been creating thousands of jobs for the benefit of the machine and through which there was a foolish waste of money and illustrated this point by the goose recently killed by a dog, and reported to Harrisburg, where a bureau sent a man to find out name of owner of dog and spent $75 to pay a bill of $3. He declared that the two administrations given by the Democrats in the last fifty years were marked by honesty and integrity and if the people now wanted such a handling of State affairs they could have it.

Samuel F. Glatfelter next introduced A. Marshall Thompson, Democratic candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs who referred to the great history of Gettysburg and Lincoln's message to the people here and asked the people in this issue to vote as Lincoln would have voted, in the interests of the people and their liberties and against a machine that wronged the people.

Colonel Fred B. Kerr, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator, and a veteran of the World War, declared that if he was sent to the Senate he would be against such a hideous mistake as the new tariff, which would send up the cost of living and build a wall around this country.

Rev. Harry Daniels then introduced John A. McSparran. Rev. Daniels said twenty years ago he was pastor of a Methodist church in Lancaster county and one of the near neighbors was the McSparran family and that he never dreamt at that time that the boy of the family, John, would be Governor of the Commonwealth. Rev. Daniels said no party was ever big enough to tag him, that he had usually voted the Republican ticket, but when he had the opportunity to vote for a man like John A. McSparran he was going to avail himself of it, for he declared that he knew what he was saving when he said that John A. McSparran was honest, capable and clean.

John A. McSparran, after expressing his gratitude for the introduction, told his audience of the kind of centralized government that had been built up at Harrisburg at their expense, how they elected School Directors and how the Department of Education made rubber stamps of the directors, how they elected Supervisors and how the Highway Department made rubber stamps of the supervisors and the same process had been going on in all the departments. He told how the over-worked teachers of the State had been compelled to make duplicate returns monthly, one to the County Superintendent and the other to the Department of Education for no other purpose than to give excuse for an army of new jobs to take care of these papers. The basis of our institution was home government and this had been taken away from the people and lodged at Harrisburg in order to make and keep alive a political machine, that held itself together by the jobs given away at the expense of the people. Now was the time for the people to declare whether they wanted this thing to continue.

Mr. McSparran then drew attention to what the people would get if Pinchot was elected, not one, but but first they would get Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot as Governor, multi-millionaires. Then in George Wharton Pepper as U. S. Senator, they would get the penna. R. R., whom he has represented for years. In Reed, for the U. S. Senate they would get United States Steel, and they would get Joe Grundy, who would run things as they had been run for years for the jobs. It was the same old gang that elected an eminent educator in Brumbaugh, and made a fizzle out of his administration. The same old crowd that next gave the State a highly respected business man in Sprout, with the result that in this campaign the Republicans do not have on the stump a single speaker defending or excusing the present administration. All political speakers condemn what has been done, even Pinchot declares that it is a mess and having helped to make the mess he asks the people to authorize him to clean it up. This is asked with the affrontery of having no platform and no program. The party wrote no platform, because they could not endorse the outgoing administration and had no program, this function having been delegated by Pinchot to commissions that could not report until after election. All this meant the same old machine with more jobs at Harrisburg. If the people wanted this thing stopped, there was a party with a platform and candidates who would see to it that this centralization was stopped and home government preserved for the people.

The Democratic candidates then held a hurried reception and hastened on to their next stop. They visited York Springs, Idaville, Gardners, Aspers, Bendersville, Biglerville, Arendtsville and Cashtown before coming to Gettysburg, making a most favorable impression and receiving ovations all along the route and following their speeches. The journey in the late afternoon was continued to New Oxford and Littlestown.

OCTOBER ARGUMENT COURT

FOUR PRISONERS BEFORE THE COURT.

Two Were Paroled and Two Who Stole Children's Bicycles at School Sentenced.

At October argument court on Monday morning, presided over by President Judge D. P. McPherson and Associate Judge H. B. Pearson, the following business was transacted. Associate Judge Miller was away, having been summoned to the U. S. Court as a juror.

Four prisoners came before the court. The first was William Shuey, of Westminster, Md. He had been arrested for the larceny of a rain coat from the store of C. W. Cook, Centre Square. The defendant asserted that it had not been his intention to steal the coat. That he had gone in to look at one and later went in and picked it up to show it to some friends within seventy-five feet of the store and was arrested while he still had it. The young man, 19 years of age, had never been in any court before and the Court warned him that his behavior in the future must be such as to give no cause of complaint, and sentence was suspended and the boy was paroled in the custody of his father and was directed to pay the costs of $22.

Willard McCartney, an ex-service man, of Denver, Colo., was charged with taking a pocketbook of Raymond McConnelly of New Chester. The latter came along in a car and gave McCartney and a companion a lift and the machine not working McConnelly got out and had taken off his coat. McCartney said he found the pocketbook on the road and at first thought it was his own but finding it was not took the $2 out of it and threw the book away. When McConnelly reported his loss to the police of Hanover, they arrested McCartney and he admitted he had found the pocketbook and returned the $2 and took the police to point where he had thrown book and it was recovered. By reason of it being his first offense he was paroled in custody of J. L. Staub, of near New Oxford and to pay the costs of $26.20.

Rudolph Kopetsky and Frank Hans plead guilty to charge of larceny of two bicycles belonging to Catherine Mumter and Wendell Rudisill, standing at the Meade School building. The two defendants, 19 and 20 years old said their homes were in New York and they were tramping to the mother of one of them living near Pittsburgh. They had jumped on the bicycles and were followed and abandoning the wheels ran across the field and officers picked them up later near Seven Stars. They were sentenced to three months in jail, a fine of $1, and the costs in each case of $18.50. The following accounts were confirmed:

Geo. A. Arter, administrator of Ottiwell Arter, late of Berwick township.

John H. Miller, administratrix of Elmira R. Miller, late of Mt. Pleasant township.

J. B. Carns, administrator of Severen P. Noel, late of Abbottstown.

John F. Rife, administrator of Caroline Rife, late of Gettysburg.

New Methodist Church.

Rev. Harry Daniels has named the building committee for the new Methodist church and it is composed of the following: J. L. Williams, Esq., is chairman, and other members are: J. W. Bodley, C. Lee Shilliday, Calvin F. Solt, J. D. Clapsaddle, Emory Williams, Milton R. Remmel, Wesley I. Ovier, Joseph T. Mahan, E. Oscar Deardorff, Emory H. Forrest, Chas. W. Cook and I. Calvin Nau.

This committee will be augmented by others, but for the present they will have entire charge of all arrangements made for building.

Rev. Harry Daniels heads the committee on location. The other member is Wesley I. Ovier.

The central organization was completed by naming Joseph T. Mahan, chairman; Prof. C. Lee Shilliday, secretary, and Charles W. Cook, treasurer.

This organization will have charge of the selection of a site, employment of an architect and asking bids for proposed building. It is not likely that ground will be broken before next spring. Highly satisfactory offers have been made for the church property so that the new church will in all probability be located elsewhere in the town.

Home Given for City Mission Children

Announcement has been made of the gift by Mrs. Elizabeth Mark, widow of Hanson P. Mark, of Arendtsville of a house and lot in that town to the Society of Inner Missions and Rescue Work of Brooklyn, of which Rev. V. A. M. Mortensen of Brooklyn, is Superintendent. Rev. J. B. Baker, during his pastorate at St. James Lutheran Church became interested in this mission and a number of Brooklyn children have been cared for in and around Gettysburg for a number of summers. Children from this mission were cared for in Arendtsville and Mrs. Mark thus became interested in the work. Rev. Mortensen in expressing an appreciation of the gift indicated that there were plans for remodeling of the building into a house to be used by the mission in giving the children a few weeks' outing in the country each summer.

SEES McSPARRAN A WINNER

SLUMP IN REPUBLICAN REGISTRATION IN CITIES.

Friends of Good Government Can Clean Up Mess by Voting for McSparran.

Austin E. McCullough, Democratic State Chairman, has been hearing from all parts of the State and has the following to say about the present outlook for McSparran:

"I am advised from Democratic State headquarters, which bases deductions on reports from two-thirds of the cities in Pennsylvania, with estimates from the balance, that the Republican registration in the first, second and third class cities of Pennsylvania is approximately 400,000 under the registration of that party for the May primaries. The Democratic registration in the same cities, is by the same estimate, but 27,000 lower than the registration at the last primaries. This shows that the Republican majority in Pennsylvania has been cut down by registration 375,000, which means that any Republican, independent or Democrat who wants to see the mess cleaned up at Harrisburg by one whose fingers are not dirty from the mess table, can be assured of a real clean-up by going out into their precinct, division or township and securing eight voters who usually vote the Republican ticket to vote for John McSparran and his running mates.

The reduced Republican registration, of course, assures the election of Mr. McSparran as Governor of Pennsylvania, because the Democratic State organization has positive assurance from more than 2000 districts that from 10 to 20 voters who usually vote the Republican ticket are going to vote for Mr. McSparran and his running mates, and I feel sure that this average will be increased in many of the other districts.

"Based on the registration figures and information at hand about which there can be no doubt, I predict the election of Mr. McSparran by a large plurality."

What Mr. McSparran Says.

"For three weeks we have been going over the State visiting chiefly agricultural counties and in a few instances the hard and soft coal regions. Wherever we have gone we have found voters generally in a responsive mood for our message."

Lack of Faith in Pinchot.

"The average voter has been watching affairs at Harrisburg. They have found Republican leaders admitting conditions very bad. They even find the Republican nominee for Governor exposing a 'mess' and promising he will clean it up. But they have no faith in Mr. Pinchot. They realize as never before that the hope for good government in Pennsylvania rests upon the building up of a minority organization that will stand ready at all times to answer the call of the people and take over the reins of government."

"Whatever faith the average voter had in Mr. Pinchot was dissipated when it was discovered that he was part of the mess he so glibly denounces. His flagrant violation of the spirit of the Constitution places Mr. Pinchot beyond the pale of consideration as far as a real clean-up is concerned. Then there is a popular revulsion against the expenditures of enormous sums of money in political campaigns. Through the State we have found men and women alike expressing their disapproval of the Pinchot primary slush fund and we have every reason to believe they will carry their protest to the polls."

Mr. McSparran declares: "We are paying the highest taxes in the history of the State for the privilege of living under the rottenest government in America."

Talking to an audience of teachers McSparran declared: "There was never a sound reason for the desire of the Harrisburg politicians to take the control of schools out of the hands of the communities and centralize it in a vast top-heavy department at the State Capital."

Department Made for Jobs.

"All they had in mind when they created that department," he said, "was jobs. They needed more jobs to take care of their henchmen. That is why they took our schools out of the hands of the people and turned them over to a lot of swivel-chair politicians at Harrisburg."

"If I am elected Governor it shall be my purpose, with the least possible delay, to find money to place institutions of which the State is proud in a position where those who are charged with the responsibility of our schools shall receive every penny that is owing them at or before the time it is due."

"In order to meet these obligations, it may be necessary to cut other less important institutions of the State Government. I shall not hesitate to do away with such institution that is not rendering a directly needed service, and to cut out every superfluous salary in order that the $125,000,000 owing the schools and the $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 owing the hospitals and the millions of dollars owed the road districts may be immediately paid."

"If I am elected I will not have to die up any money to pay pre-election henchmen, to whom, in order to secure their allegiance, I have given appointment in fictitious commissions and committees, with the expectation that after the election they will be reimbursed by appointment to some board or commission from which they can glean the pre-election expenses.

In his slam at fictitious commissions, McSparran undoubtedly was referring to the band of unofficial probers and investigators turned loose by Gifford Pinchot in order to keep him from coming out with a declaration of his stand on the important issues of the campaign. Since the opening of the fight Pinchot has always taken refuge behind one of these fake commissions when asked to define his stand on any issue.

TWO TINY WIRES

Each Bell Telephone subscriber is connected to the local central office by wires—two tiny wires.

These wires pass through a maze of cables and coils, through delicate apparatus that must be kept in careful adjustment.

And that isn't the end of it, for there must be apparatus to connect each telephone here with any other Bell Telephone in the nation.

The job of building and maintaining this complicated equipment is done by two-fisted men—men who think in terms of never failing service.

Theirs too is the task of installing new telephones, and of maintaining them.

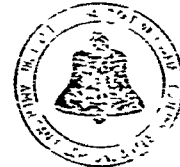

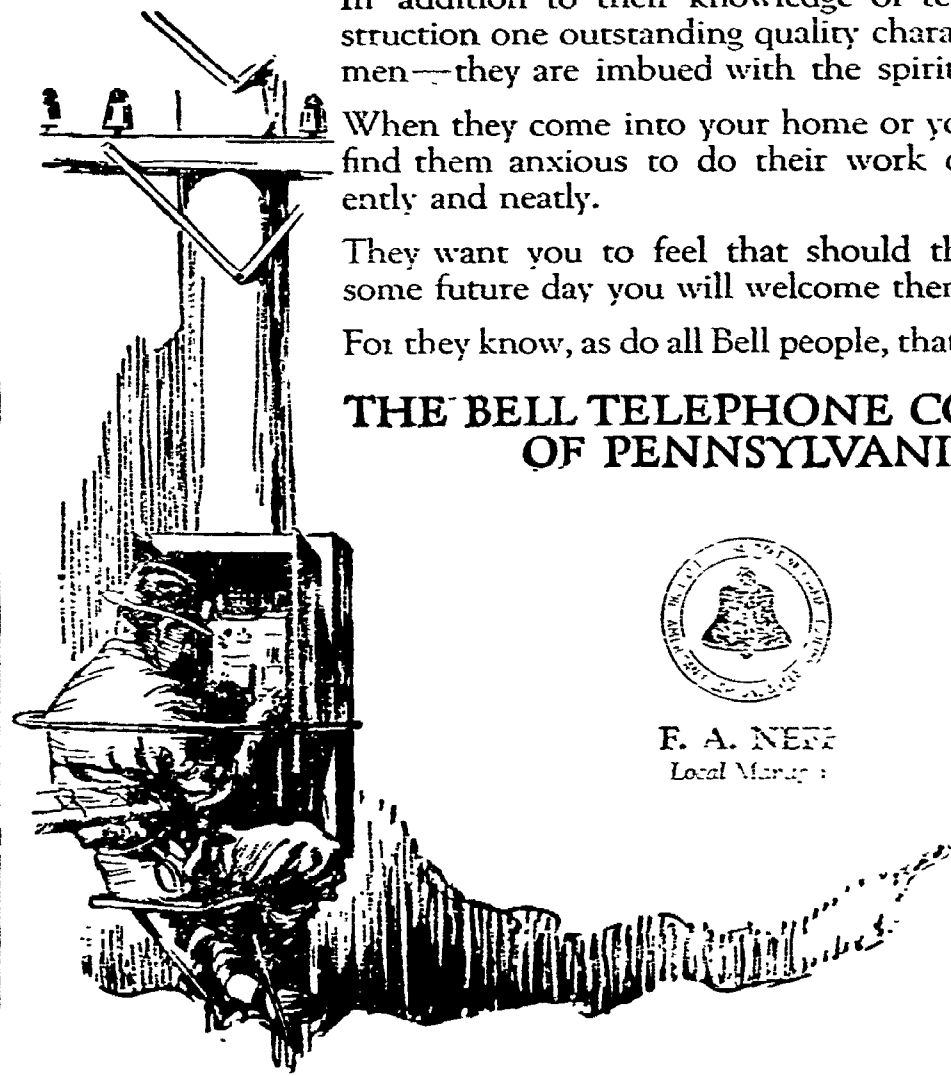

In addition to their knowledge of telephone construction one outstanding quality characterizes these men—they are imbued with the spirit of courtesy.

When they come into your home or your office you find them anxious to do their work quickly, efficiently and neatly.

They want you to feel that should they return at some future day you will welcome them.

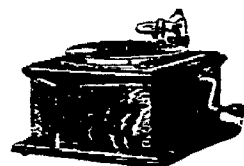

For they know, as do all Bell people, that courtesy pays.

Why is the fee given to a servant called a tip? Because the letters which compose the word are the initials of "to insure promptness," and inscription on the money boxes which used to be in old-time taverns. Into these the traveler dropped his coin, and the staff, as a whole, shared the benefit.

BACK BAD TODAY?

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor.

Edward Newman, 26 Franklin St., Gettysburg, says: "I surely can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and they proved to be all that is claimed for them in my own case. A number of years ago my kidneys were in poor shape. For a long time my back was in so weak and disordered a condition that I could hardly lift anything and when I bent over, those knife-like pains never failed to shoot across my kidneys. Mornings I felt sore in my joints and limbs and would be all tired out. My kidneys were too free in action and I was bothered during the night. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in Doan's Directory and got a few boxes of them. They did away with all the backache and put my kidneys in the best of shape."

Storage of Apples.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Industry, gives the following information about storing apples.

The ideal storage cellar for apples should be fairly dry and cool. The temperature should be kept as near to freezing as is consistent with safety. This low temperature prevents the development of rot fungi, slows down the ripening or maturing processes, and lessens evaporation of water—all of which tends to make the apples keep longer, and in better condition.

Stored apples also need fresh air. They "breathe" very slowly at low temperatures and though they need only a small amount of air they must have that and have it regularly. To allow for this the fruit should be stored in shallow layers or shelves or crates so as to allow free passage of air to all the fruit. The whole cellar may be ventilated by a shaft or else frequent airing may be given by opening doors or windows on mild days.

When an apple rots the rot fungus will soon produce countless spores on the surface of the rot spots and these will drift about the cellar and spread the rot to other fruits. Pick the apples over at intervals and remove from the cellar all the spotted and rotten fruit.

A storage cellar should be thoroughly cleansed before putting in a new apple crop, so as to avoid rot carried over from last year's storage. White wash is excellent for this purpose.
